Library Receives Tiny Book Of Lincoln's Talks

One Inch Clay Tablets
Made About 2000 B.C.
Also Shown

One of the smallest books ever printed, a copy of Lincoln's inaugural address and Gettysburg address, in leather-bound volume measuring seven-eighths inches long and five-eighths inches wide, was received by the college library this week.

This miniature book containing 139 pages was published by Kingsport Press in 1929, and according to Miss Joyce Backus, head of the library department, is one of the few small books ever to be actually printed.

The book was obtained for a library course in history, Miss Backus said.

Babylonian clay tablets measuring one and a half inches square are also in the possession of the library. These, however, are records and not books. Written about 2000 B. C., the lettering was done with a wedge-shaped instrument.

In comparison with these minute pieces of literature, the library owns a copy of Ancient Egypt of Mizraim, by Binion, which is more than two feet long and 19 inches wide. It contains Egyptian plates done in true color.

FEM DEBATEES ENTERTAINED AT U. C.

Elizabeth Jones and Caroline Gibb, San Jose State debaters, met a women's team last night from the University of California in an intercollegiate debate held on the Berkeley campus.

The question was, "Resolved, that a second World War is imminent," with San Jose delegates upholding the negative.

The debaters were entertained at dinner by a campus forensics organization previous to the debate.

Lincoln Pupils Enact School "Kids" In State Play

Besides the regular cast of college students, this year's Christmas presentation of the San Jose Players, "Quality Street", will feature twelve students from the Lincoln Grammar school, who will play in classroom scenes, according to Miss Margaret Douglas, director of the play.

With June Chestnut and Lorraine Callander in the leading roles, "Quality Street", written by the noted English playwright, Sir James Barrie, will be presented December 2 and 3 in Morris Dailey auditorium.

Miss Chestnut has the part of Phoebe, and Miss Callander will play Susan, her older sister.

Ona Hardy, Cherry Phillips, and Emma Borzone will play the parts of the Misses Willoughby, Fanny, and Henrietta, gossip friends of Phoebe and Susan.

The male lead will be portrayed by Ludwig Braumoeller.

Radio Class Goes On Air

Group Gives Dramatization
Written By Speech Students

Members of the radio speaking class are now having actual broadcasting practice by presenting a series of "popularized natural science" discussions and dramatizations at San Jose's radio station KQW, beginning today at 4:45 p.m.

These presentations deal with facts of natural science by dramatizing plays written by members of the class themselves. Today's broadcast will be entitled "The Work of Rivers" and will start with a discussion by Willis Green and Dorothy Leverenz.

Following the discussion there will be a dramatic presentation with the following members of the class in the cast: Willis Green, Dorothy Leverenz, Bill Van Vleck, Johnston Mosier, Jack Gruber, Victor Carlock, Wilbur Korsmeier, and Lorraine Callander.

This series will run for ten weeks with the following subjects listed for discussion and dramatization: 2nd week, earthquakes; 3rd week, (Continued on Page Four)

Works Of John Henry Nash To Be Exhibited By Library Thursday

Works of John Henry Nash, world famous master printer, will be shown at an exhibit in Room 120 conducted by the History of Books and Printing class Thursday afternoon, November 18, from 2 to 4.

The display, under the supervision of Miss Dora Smith, will feature the finest printing achievements of Mr. Nash, many of which are based on the masterpieces of early printers.

Another feature of the exhibit will be the display of textual and physical make-up of books, which will include samples of European book making.

Math Majors Hold Picnic-Barbecue At Stadium Clubhouse

Extending an invitation to all members of the college engineering, aviation, and physics classes to attend, the mathematics majors will hold their picnic-barbecue at Spartan Stadium clubhouse tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

With the invitation to all including friends of these classes, the math majors have planned a program of entertainment for the group. A twenty-five cent charge will be made.

A book on junior high school science, edited by Walling Corwin, Mae Johnson Corwin, and P. Victor Peterson, chairman of the Natural Science department of San Jose State college, came off the press this month.

The book, composed of 495 pages and divided into 42 units, attempts to give children up to the eighth grade a general knowledge of the entire scientific age in which they are living.

Debaters Leave For Denver To Attend Confab

Eckert To Participate
In Speech Teachers
Convention

Friday morning five varsity debaters and Debate Coach Ralph Eckert will leave San Jose by automobile for Denver to participate in the Rocky Mountain Speech Conference and the convention of the Western Association of Teachers of Speech to be held in the Colorado capitol next week.

Students to make the journey are Aaron Heinrich and Milton Quadros, juniors; Frank Wilson and James Hulquist, sophomores; and Emerson Kumm, freshman.

The debate conference will be held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week but the group will stay over until Friday to permit Mr. Eckert to participate in the speech teachers' convention. With Professor Casteel of University of Oregon, Coach Eckert is scheduled to discuss the contribution of "we" psychology to the teaching of speech.

The entire San Jose State squad is daily working on the question, "How can we preserve our Democratic liberties?" This was chosen by the local group in preference to the other subject to be discussed at the conference, namely, "Democracy in industry".

The fifth man on the San Jose delegation will be teamed with a leading member of the University of Denver squad.

Mining Exhibit Of Late E. Berry On Display

A mining exhibit taken from the selections of the late Edward F. Berry of San Jose was given to the Science department of San Jose State college this week by his wife, Mrs. Edward F. Berry.

The collection is composed of a gauge for hydraulic running, four volumes and index in Ore Dressing by Richards, and a final report of the construction of the Los Angeles Aqueduct.

The exhibit will be placed in the Geological department of the college for use in Mineralogy, and classes in mining and prospects.

OFFENBACH, PIZIO HAVE LEAD ROLES IN ORCHESIS PLAY

When members of Orchesis, honorary dance society at San Jose State college, present "The Juggler of Notre Dame" on the afternoon of December 5, it will be the sixth time since 1929 that the unusual Christmas program has been presented locally.

Featuring Eleanor Offenbach and Edythe Pizio in the leading roles, this year's presentation of the "Juggler" will feature much new and startling scenery and costumes, according to Miss Marjorie Lucas, Orchesis adviser.

On the same evening and in conjunction with the dancing group, the Junior choir, under direction of Mr. Clinton Lewis, will sing a number of Bohemian carols. Admission to the program, to be presented in the Little Theater, is free.

Speaking before the members of Pegasus, San Jose State college honorary literary society, last night, Mrs. Sibyl Hanchett gave a critical review of John Hargrave's "Summertime Ends".

General discussion, in which campus writers participated after Mrs. Hanchett's review, concerned modern writing tendencies and practices.

Alumni Paper Lauds Death-Trap Victory

Into the mails yesterday went the third issue of the 1937-38 Alumni Bulletin, monthly publication issued for members of the large San Jose State college Alumni Association.

Edited by Dolores Freitas, journalism department faculty member and former Spartan Daily editor-in-chief, the current Bulletin contains four pages of news items and features concerning campus activity and alumni accomplishments. One featured story lauds the student body and Spartan Daily victory in the famed "Death Trap" controversy.

W.A.A. Banquet

Christmas Celebration
To Be Held December
8 At Hotel Ste. Claire

Heralding the holiday season, members of WAA are making rapid plans for their fifteenth annual Christmas banquet to be held in the main dining room of the Sainte Claire hotel December 8.

The banquet has been changed from December 7 to December 8 to avoid a conflict with the symphony orchestra concert which is being presented December 7.

Following tradition, each member of the organization attending will bring a small gift to be given to the children's organizations for distribution to the less fortunate in the neighborhood of San Jose. This is one of the most important features of the banquet, and all members are encouraged to participate.

Tickets are now on sale for the affair and may be secured from the women's physical education department or from any WAA member. All girls are urged to get their tickets as soon as possible, since only 100 are available. Prices have been lowered to one dollar per person.

Girls may state seating preferences at the time they buy their tickets. Organizations wishing to sit together are requested to reserve their sections early.

A LAUGH SHOW IN TOWN

Irene And Cary Go 'Subtle

"THE AWFUL TRUTH", with Irene Dunne, Cary Grant, and Ralph Bellamy at the Fox California.

There was at least one person who went to this one with a good bit of skepticism. The trailer blurbs of "the year's funniest" . . . Hollywood goes mad . . . another 'It Happened One Night', only better . . . etc." Seemed just a bit too good to be true even in a small degree. But there was also at least one person in the audience who lost his skepticism very quickly. The show is good—well directed—well acted, and the audience loved it.

Although it would be possible to point out some weaknesses here and there—what's the use. It is put on as a laugh provoker and it does just that in no uncertain way. Moreover it is far more generous in its laughs than the average "side splitter" of Hollywood manufacture. The thing that will make many people like this one is that it does not rest content in the use of the merely obvious but sprinkles a great deal of subtlety throughout.

If you want a thoroughly delightful hour and a half—you can't beat this one—it is up to your level.

Best line: "Here's your diploma" (watch for it).

Best shot: The last one in the picture.

Best acting: None of it is great by any means, but there is a great deal of clever comedy work—however, let's give the director some credit there.

The second feature, "The Women Men Marry" with George Murphy and Josephine Hutchinson, is better than the average second feature—as second features go. Josephine Hutchinson helps this matter—and then there are moments in the story which are good in their own right. It certainly isn't worth the price of admission alone, however, and the same skeptical person is still wondering whether it would be classed as comedy, tragedy, melodrama—or just a movie.

The NEWS Reel has some excellent shots of a couple of football games that we have all read about days ago.

You may be interested in the results of our Community Chest drive this year, as compared with last year. The Associated Students contributed $276, as compared with $294 last year, a decrease of 6% with an increase in the number of students of about 10%. Instructional staff $2121, as compared with $2176 last year, a decrease of 2.5%, and about a 2% increase in the faculty. The clerical staff $123, as compared with $127 last year, a decrease of 3%. Buildings and grounds staff, $42, as compared with $58 last year, a decrease of 3%. Co-op and health cottage employees $35, as compared with $62 last year, a decrease of 35%.

This makes an approximate total of $2597, as compared with $2716 last year, a decrease of 4%. The whole Chest failed in its objective of $123,000 by about $8,000. The city schools went over the top, as usual, largely, I believe, on account of the paper drives and, no doubt, the better organization. The county schools did better this year than last year.

A number of influences in the community contributed to the loss of support. The spirit is gradually developing among us that government must be held responsible for everything and that public activities, not approved by the government and supported by taxes, have no right to existence. Personally, I think we miss something when we don't engage in activities that are not legally forced upon us.

LOW SPOTS OF HISTORY

AMBROSE FINDS AFRICANS BONE RATTTLERS

Among the great explorers of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries were Columbus, Magellan, Sir Walter Raleigh, and Ambrose Peabody-Jones. Columbus, as you may know, discovered America; Raleigh discovered tobacco; Magellan discovered something equally important which we cannot at the moment recall. But Ambrose's people I know in this community are those who are interested in the Community Chest. I don't know that the Chest makes them that way. They are simply public-spirited citizens who are willing to give their time and money to support activities that promise to be a service to the community. Whether every cent of that contribution functions in that way, or whether some of it may be dissipated in the natural fallibility of human management, seems not to concern them very much. They work hard on the Chest drive, have a good time and get acquainted with like-minded people who, in themselves, are very attractive.

WE DID PRETTY WELL

I wish to express my deepest appreciation for the fine support the drive has received in the college. I doubt if any other college or university in the state did as well. Those of which I know don't come anywhere near meeting our response.

I deeply appreciate the fine spirit of sacrifice shown by some of us. In fact, I wouldn't be surprised to learn that one or two have given really more than they could afford. I hope it may not prove too much of a limitation on their other responsibilities. I shall not be able to make a personal expression of thanks to all who contributed, but if those who have will accept this in lieu of personal letters, they may be assured that it is utterly sincere.

exploit ranks with the best of them.

Ambrose was a pimply-faced lad of forty-two when the exploring fad reached England, and, like all youths of the period, he was all a-quiver to get out and explore. Casting about for an unused continent, he decided on Africa.

His voyage was a long and pleasant one. He landed on the west coast and hiked a few miles inland until he encountered a native tribe. He was shown to two chiefs of the tribe, whose names, he later discovered, were Sam and George.

Ambrose greeted them cheerfully. "What-ho, what-ho, what-ho," say, if you chaps don't mind, I like to sprint about and do a spot of exploring."

George held a conversation with his attendant, and the man went away and returned with two cubed objects which he placed on the floor.

George got down on his knees. "Roll you fo' his haid," he suggested amiably.

George rolled the cubed objects. When they stopped turning, the numbers on top totalled eight. George seemed pleased. "Eighter from Decatur. An after one eight comes nudda eight. Tell to me dice. Ise listenin'."

George rolled again and another eight came up. "Hot dice," he claimed. But Sam reached down, picked up the dice and examined them. Ambrose escaped in the night that followed, and returned to England where he opened a little shop that was raided periodically.

Tempe Gridders Gunning For First Victory

SPARTANS TO LEAVE FRIDAY FOR ARIZONA

Marines, Flagstaff In Close Wins Over Bulldog Outfit

The Spartan gridders took first steps yesterday afternoon in preparing for the Arizona State clash next Saturday. After a layoff Monday afternoon, Coach Dud DeGroot's footballers now have three days to get into shape for their lengthy trip over the week-end.

Friday morning on the "Daylight Limited", the squad will leave, going by the way of Los Angeles enroute to Tempe. They will arrive in San Jose again Sunday evening.

TOUGH SCHEDULE

The Tempe outfit, although still to break into the win column this year, has played a tough schedule. They lost to strong Santa Barbara State, University of Arizona, Texas Mines, New Mexico University, and dropped close one touchdown decisions to Flagstaff and the San Diego Marines.

Flagstaff barely managed to win out over the Tempe Teachers, and the Northern Arizona boys presented one of the strongest offenses against the Spartans this season. The San Diego Marines too had to battle for their victory over Tempe, winning in the final quarter.

According to pre-game "dope", the Bulldogs from Tempe will present a much stronger team than that which dropped a 33-6 game to the locals last season. Featured in their attack is one Leo Burns, considered a great broken field runner.

On the line the Bulldogs boast an outstanding guard, Hank Rockwell, who tips the scales at 220 pounds and stands six feet five in his stocking feet. Burns, Rockwell, Jim Nesbit, a fullback, Paul Farmer, halfback, and Glenn Landreth, ace end are considered the class in their positions. These five men all transferred from Fullerton Junior college in Southern California.

O. Collins Winner Of Player Award

Named Most Valuable In Redlands Game

Owen Collins, veteran right halfback on the San Jose grid eleven, was yesterday announced as the winner of the "most valuable player" award for the Redlands-Spartan clash Armistice Day. The winner for each home game is selected by a vote of football coaches and downtown scribes.

Collins, who is captain of this year's track team, played one of the greatest games of his career last Thursday, and scored both touchdowns for the locals. His last touchdown was scored after he received a shoulder injury, but he stayed in the game for one more play. On that play he went across the goal line.

Because of his shoulder "pointer", the backfield man did not make the trip to Humboldt last week, but he may be in shape for the Tempe game on Saturday. He will be given merchandise by J. S. Williams, sponsors of the "valuable player" contest.

Freshmen football men: Turn in your equipment Thursday and Friday. No equipment accepted today.

Water Polo Septet To Face Olympic Club In Pool Tonight

FROSH PLAY RESERVES IN PRELIM; OPENER BEGINS AT 8 P.M.

San Jose versus Olympic club . . . water polo . . . two games . . . tonight . . . Spartan Plunge . . . 8 o'clock . . . frosh versus Olympic reserves . . . 9 o'clock . . . varsity vs. Olympic varsity . . .

It will be these games tonight that will decide whether Spartan water polo teams will enjoy a successful season. The varsity, by winning tonight, will be practically assured of a tie in the final league standings with a slim possibility of winning undisputed first place.

CINCH LEAGUE

The frosh, with a victory tonight, will cinch the junior division of the league and assure themselves of the championship. However, all this . . . ONLY IF THEY WIN.

The Stanford freshmen proved that the Spartan yearlings weren't unbeatable, and George Schroth's Olympians will come down from San Francisco gunning for victory. That goes for the varsity affair also.

MANY COLDS

Held to a five to five tie in the opening encounter, both sevens will be out to avenge the tie game. At the present sitting it looks as though the Olympics should be favored. The reason for this is that practically the entire Spartan first string have colds, or are ill, halt, or lame in other respects.

The forward line of Frank Savage, Al and Martin Wempe, and part of the defensive line, namely Wes Hammond and Bob Garcia and Captain Howard Withycombe, all reported for practice Monday with colds. Unless the health office comes through with some super-remedy in a short time, Sparta might be in a bad way tonight.

Soccer Squad In Inter-Team Game

Local Eleven Nears End Of Season

With an inter-squad game scheduled for this afternoon, the Spartan soccer squad swings into the final stretch of conference play, ending the season one week from today against the University of California. Prior to this final contest, the local squad meets the USF Dons in a return game Saturday on the Spartan field.

Squad members have taken encouragement since the 3-2 victory over UCLA Saturday and look to today's game as a final tune-up before engaging the Dons over the week-end. The Bay City eleven scored a 4-2 win over the locals when they invaded the Golden Gate field at the first of the season, but since then the Spartans have received added experience.

In the game with the Bruins, the local squad displayed their best offensive work of the season and a return to the form which earned them a tie with the California Bears.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

By DAN O'NEILL

Tonight IS the night!

Four crack teams—champions in their respective leagues—battle it out in the semi-finals to determine the intra-mural basketball championship of the school.

Two games are on tap for this evening. The Faculty, winners in the Inter-Class League, collide with the Acorns, kingpins of the Inter-City circuit. This game starts at 6 p.m. and an hour later the Spartan Daily team, which cleaned up on everything in the House League, engages the Spartan Stags, pennant winners of the Club loop.

STAGS WIN

The Spartan Stags clinched their league title last night by defeating the D.T.O. squad 39 to 21. The Faculty and Acorns had little trouble wading through their opposition, but the Spartan Daily had a close shave in copping the bunting in the House League.

All four of tonight's teams are evenly matched. The Faculty-Acorn tussle should be a humdinger from start to finish. Curtis, Hodgson, and Carruth of the Acorns are noted deadeyes, but the Faculty has Gil Bishop who isn't a bad shot himself.

DAILY TEAM STRONG

Spartan Stags are hard to figure out. There is nothing sensational about them, but still they chalk up victories. Their opponents, the Spartan Daily, have some fine basketkeepers and they are highly favored to win the championship.

Tonight's winners? From here it looks like the Acorns and the Spartan Daily.

Basketball Managers:

There will be a meeting of all basketball managers in the P.E. office at 7:00 p.m. Thursday evening, November 18th.

DeVoss Gives Career Information

Petroleum, Canning, Motor, Meat Packing, Screen, Principle Industries Of West Coast; All Offer Opportunity For Young Graduate

Students looking forward to careers in the industrial enterprises on the west coast would do well to inform themselves upon the opportunities offered by these industries, states Dr. James DeVoss of the Personnel department.

Petroleum is the most important industry on the Pacific coast; ranking next to this is the cannery business; third and fourth most important, respectively, are the motor and meat packing industries. Motion pictures are not considered an industry by the United States Census, but this ranks second only to the petroleum industry. All these industries offer great opportunities to accredited graduates of colleges.

California ranks first in the United States in the development of Motion Pictures and airplanes. Chemical and power industries seem to be the most rapid growing industries on the Pacific coast, according to reports.

The main industries on the west coast offer limitless opportunities for well trained, well-bred young college people, declares Dr. DeVoss.

SCRIVENER FINDS LIBRARY BOOK DELVERS

Concentrate Apparently Oblivious Of Undignified Positions
NECK SITTERS, CHIN PROPER PREVALENT

By BART MAYNARD

It seems that every student, unknowingly, has his own method of studying in the library. There is no orthodox way of studying among any group.

You may find a few who concentrate deeply over their books, or who appear to, but on the most part they seem to be unconscious of those around them and assume the most undignified positions.

In an observation taken yesterday in the library from eleven to twelve, about a dozen methods of studying were found.

EASY DOES IT

The one that provided the most was the slumped down, sitting on one's neck position. Here the individual had his book propped up, his whole body relaxed, and all he had to do was to move his eyes over the printed matter. A very nice way to rest without going so far as sleeping.

Then we noticed the character whose head seemed to be too heavy for his neck. He usually had a hand on his forehead as if to impound the absorbing knowledge, or he had his chin propped up to keep his mouth closed.

Of course it wouldn't be right to leave out the pencil and pen suckers. There seems to be something in the rubber and celluloid that either is appetizing or stimulating. And while we are on this subject, why doesn't someone invent a pencil or pen with a small vial secreted in the top containing something worth sucking on. Perhaps a little nip now and then would prove to be a benefit.

COORDINATION

We noticed at the table in front of us an individual who seemed

Behind The News

By SHIRLIE STRAUB

Continuing his discussion of whether the United States is headed for a new depression, Dr. William Poytress spoke to the Behind the News class yesterday stressing government plans in the present situation, and enlarging on the factors responsible for the slump.

There are two theories on the reasons for the present recession. Dr. Poytress pointed out, one of them the government's interference in business, especially as regards the S.E.C.A. and the New Deal program. The other theory and the most probable, might be explained as the underlying economic factors of business today. By this is meant that prices and wages are too high and the expected boom in industry failed to materialize. Housing and general public utilities have not had the boom expected, mainly because of labor and material costs.

OUTLOOK FAVORABLE

As to whether there is a new depression in the offing, Dr. Poytress brought out the fact that certain factors existing at the time of the last depression are now existent now, especially the great credit or debt structure that existed in 1929. On the contrary there are many favorable factors among which are the facts that there is plenty of money now, interest rates are low, there has been a steady increase in demand for consumer's goods, wages have been raised, the farm income is better, and inventories have been built up. These factors were present in the last depression.

PUT MONEY TO WORK

The money that has been saved must be put to work now, and that is the difficulty that business is now facing. With the government ceasing to spend money, business must take over where government left off, Dr. Poytress said. If private enterprise does not respond, government will have to take up the slack, and business can shoulder the load without depending on the government there can be no real prosperity.
